HENRY MOSLER, ARTIST, IS DEAD

Abroad as One of World's Great Painters.

Henry Mosler, artist, most popularly known for his paintings of American historical subjects, died yesterday at his nome, 48 West Eighty-ninth street. He was the first American painter to win the distinction of having a sample of DUFFY .- On Tuesday, April 20, 1920, his work purchased by the French Government for the Luxembourg galleries, and for fifty years he was recognized in Europe and America as one of the great genre painters of the world.

His painting, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," has been more favorably received by many critics than the familiar Leutze painting of the same subject in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. His painting of Betsy Ross and ompanions at the making of the first American flag, and that entitled "Ring, Ring for Liberty," depicting the old beliringer in Independence Hall, are perhaps the most familiar. Mr. Mosler was born in this city in 1841. His parents moved to Cincinnati when he was 10 years old, and it was in the West that he began his work as an artist. He turned naturally to engrav ing and painting, and opportunity at last offered for study under James H. Beard.
